OLA - Open Landscape Academy

Funded by “2022 Erasmus +” programme

OLA - Democratic Landscape Transformation: Towards an Open Landscape Academy is an Erasmus+ project that aims to open a dialogue on participation & landscape democracy within universities, researchers, practitioners and local communities involved in the public space discourse. The main objective is to promote landscape knowledge and practice through participation and to co-design different landscape adaptation strategies for climate resilience at local and regional scales.

Intensive Course

May 24th to 31st, 2024

Agricultural University of Athens

A multiplier event and a blended intensive program of the OLA project, co-organised by the Agricultural University of Athens and commonspace Co-op, is set to be a landmark occasion in the realm of urban landscape transformation and democracy. At least 50 postgraduate students, academics, practitioners, and activists are participating and exploring the main research question of the event:

What makes an urban landscape democratic? And for Whom?

Multiplier Event

May 24th, 2024, 9:30-13:30

Conference Center Auditorium of the Agricultural University of Athens

The event opens on May 24th with presentations about the Open Landscape Academy and the Right to the Landscape. The event's program will feature diverse presentations, workshops, and discussions to explore the latest developments and innovations in landscape architecture. During the Conference, the “Charta for Democratic Landscape Transformation” will be introduced for interventions.
